THE TERRA CEIA FARMS

August 2013

Dear Customer,

Greetings from Terra Ceia. I hope this letter finds you in good health and ready to get in the garden to plant some fall bulbs and plants for blooms next spring. It has been an almost perfect growing season here and the crops look excellent as we approach the start of our annual fall lifting / harvesting season. Unfortunately, just like the garden, the weeds respond to good weather too and there is no shortage of cultivation and hoeing to accomplish on a daily basis.

The family is doing well. Now that they are both in their teens and in need of income, my sons have been employed in the battle against weeds this summer. I must say that I have a new respect for what my dad and uncle must have endured in summertime since we always had a full roster of teenage help growing up. Sometimes it seems that I spend more time trying to get them to accomplish something than I would have spent doing it myself! I also have a new reason to look forward to the beginning of school at the end of this month...

My mom is doing well. In between helping with all of the grandchildren, she is getting ready for a month long trip to Colorado for a reunion with all of her siblings. I don't think I could handle a whole month but she has twelve brothers and sisters - that requires a whole lot of catching up. I can just hear the ruckus thinking about it!

Thanks again for all the feedback on our new website. We have made several internal technology changes this summer - hopefully this will allow us to implement some of your suggestions while dealing with some of the issues that are inherent with such a major change. If you haven't had the chance, check us out at www.terraceiafarms.com. While there, you can sign up for our newsletters and promotions if you are interested.

We are thankful for our faithful customers and look forward to serving you this upcoming shipping season. Let us know how we can help.

God bless you all.

Sincerely,

Carl Van Staalduin

Daffodils are probably one of the easiest bulbs to grow. They usually begin welcoming Spring to our farm in mid-February. One can see them all along the ditchbanks at first, their presence a direct result of spills during our annual harvesting and replanting. While this is not necessarily a tribute to mechanization, we think it certainly is to nature! All daffodils are DNII size (14-16 cm in circumference) unless noted otherwise.

Nothing compares to a peony. Huge flowers, up to 6 inches across, on strong stems with lush green foliage. A cut flower without comparison, they are also beautiful in the border as a centerpiece. We have freshly dug roots in good varieties adapted to the North and Southeast. Plants take one to two years to establish. When planting in areas with partial shade, staking may be necessary for support once blooming begins.

Tulips are unparalleled for their vibrant colors, so it only takes a few to make a bold statement in the landscape. They do not, however, perennialize well in warm southern climates. If you happen to live in such an area, lifting your bulbs annually or treating them as annuals is the only way to overcome this. Most gardeners feel it is worth it, as we have been shipping them for over 50 years now!

Paperwhites

Common: Narcissi
Zone: 4

Size: 17+ cm bulb
Blooms: 3-6 Weeks After Planting

Choose these bulbs based on how you plan to force them: planted in soil or in water. Either way, you'll be thrilled with the results!

Note: To ensure Christmas blooming, we suggest using bottom heat. Because Amaryllis thrive at an air temperature of 68 to 70 degrees with a soil temperature of 75 degrees, bottom heat is essential to getting your bulbs off to an early start. To provide these conditions without the expense of a high-tech glasshouse, simply place your pots on a standard heating pad. Heating pads enable you to leave the thermostat at a comfortable temperature while providing sufficient heat in the root zone. It should be noted that Amaryllis will grow fine in the absence of bottom heat, only not as fast.

Bulbs By the Bushel

Available in 1/2 bushel sizes!

About graded blooming size bulbs...

Bulbs in these bushels are comprised of all sizes that will bloom reliably (aka 'field run grade'). Because the size of the flower is directly related to bulb size, we suggest that you purchase our largest blooming size bulbs for formal plantings. However, if you want bulbs for naturalizing, perennializing, or large-scale informal plantings, the items listed below are your best value. Available in half and full bushels, with discounts when for 5 or more are purchased.

Bulbs By the Bushel

Available in 1/2 bushel sizes!

About graded blooming size bulbs...

Bulbs in these bushels are comprised of all sizes that will bloom reliably (aka 'field run grade'). Because the size of the flower is directly related to bulb size, we suggest that you purchase our largest blooming size bulbs for formal plantings. However, if you want bulbs for naturalizing, perennializing, or large-scale informal plantings, the items listed below are your best value. Available in half and full bushels, with discounts when for 5 or more are purchased.

Where Did The Name Terra Ceia Come From And What Does It Mean?

Although most people credit the Dutch for the name, it is neither from the Dutch language, nor was it given to the area by the many Dutch immigrants who made their way here during the early 1900s. Terra Ceia finds its roots in two languages: "Terra" is Latin for earth or soil. "Ceia" is Italian (Sicilian dialect I have been told) for expanse, sky or heavens. It is typically used with religious connotations. Therefore, the most common translations are "Heavenly Earth" or "Where the Heavens Meet the Earth".

It is interesting to note that most of the land in this area was swampland prior to the turn of the century. It was typically purchased as such by wealthy investors who would, in turn, drain the swamp, then sell the timber, and finally, liquidate the land. Many of these investors were Italians from the Northeastern U.S., so it is likely that when they found themselves at the end of their investment cycle, they needed to use some catchy marketing to get rid of the cut-over swampland. Thus "Terra Ceia" was born!

What Makes It An Ideal Area For Raising Bulb Blooming Plants?

Ironically, the bottom of a swamp usually is "heavenly earth" (think of all that decaying organic matter year after year); the problem is making it accessible for use. One of my father's first jobs upon arrival in 1943 was "dynamiting" cypress stumps! That work is all done now and one is hard pressed to imagine that less than one hundred years ago, this area was for the most part, a mosquito-infested swamp! It should also be noted that most Dutchmen did not necessarily come here for the soil, even though it was well advertised! At the time, Europeans had just endured a time of horrible economic conditions followed by two world wars. It was a good time to leave for a land of "better opportunity".

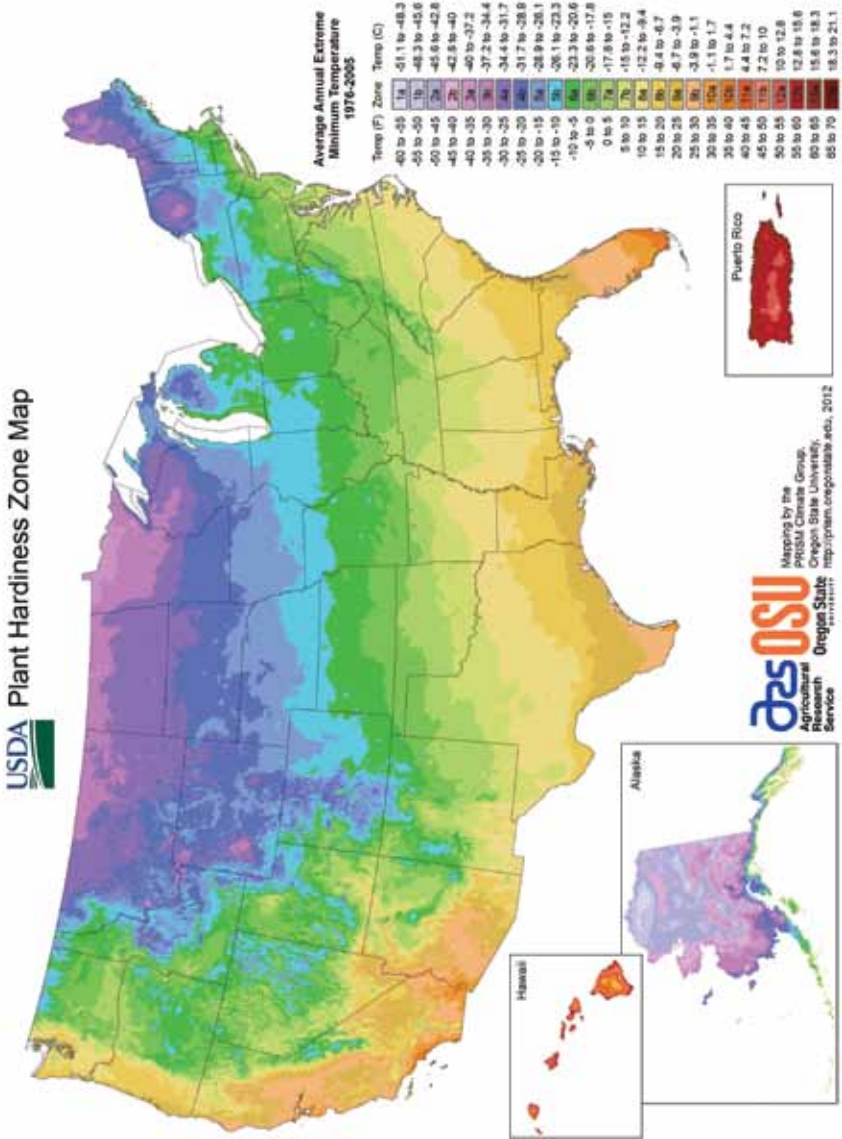

As far as bulb growing is concerned, you will find that most immigrant communities trace their roots back to the same geographic areas they emigrated from, and that new immigrants continued on with the same skills and careers they had in their native countries when possible. Terra Ceia's immigrants largely came from either the "bulb district" or from other agricultural areas of Holland where, respectively, floriculture and dairying were the predominant industries. Basically, they "did what they knew" and prayed that things would work out. The flower growers in particular, found that the unique climate and ready access to the big markets in the Northeast gave them opportunities to continue their trade here and many became quite successful. At its zenith, as many as 30 families made their living growing cut flowers for the Burroughs of New York and other big cities. Ultimately, this success led to "better" opportunities for later generations and many pursued new careers. Add to this a changing marketplace (ie. International air freight), and today you will only find two families that still endeavor to make the flowers that Terra Ceia is famous for their existence.

The Terra Ceia Farms Guarantee

- We guarantee our plants to be completely healthy and properly sized when they arrive at your location.
- We also guarantee them to be true-to-name when they bloom.

Using the Zone Map

We want you to get the best results from bulbs you select from The Terra Ceia Farms. That is why we have provided this Hardiness Zone Map. The Hardiness Zones are based on the average minimum temperatures for each area. Many factors, such as sun, wind, snow cover or rainfall in your climate can also effect the minimum temperature in your area as presented by this map. Once you determine the zone you live in, you can use the chart, along with the zone listings in our product descriptions, to determine which varieties are best for your garden. If you have a question, please call us, or consult your local County Agricultural Agent.
